This was an easy choice for me and something very dear to my heart. I decided to research funding for cancer research: how it is accumulated, what it is spent on and how this money is used in our Region. I was a team leader for a group of eight of us for the Race for Life, setting up social media to promote our fundraising, collecting donations and rallying the troops on what was supposed to be a sunny July morning. We raised over £100 for Cancer Research UK, exceeding our target by £35.

My advice would be to pick something you are really passionate about for this one.
